Preparing Global Citizens and Future World Leaders

Program Overview

The Academy program provides an advanced, rigorous course of student-centered, thematic approach that focuses on world languages, world cultures, and leadership/military science. The innovative curriculum stimulates curiosity for, and love of, learning while focusing on critical and analytical thinking. This intensive interdisciplinary program of study will:

- provide a strong academic foundation, leadership development, and international perspective that promotes understanding and appreciation of countries and cultures;
- foster independence, responsibility, creativity, cooperation, and compassion;
- prepare students to live and work effectively in a globally competitive workforce;
- build a sense of pride, patriotism, self-reliance, discipline, self-esteem, integrity, confidence and other qualities that mold strong character and citizenship;
- develop students' critical thinking, problem solving, and leadership skills.

Program Objectives

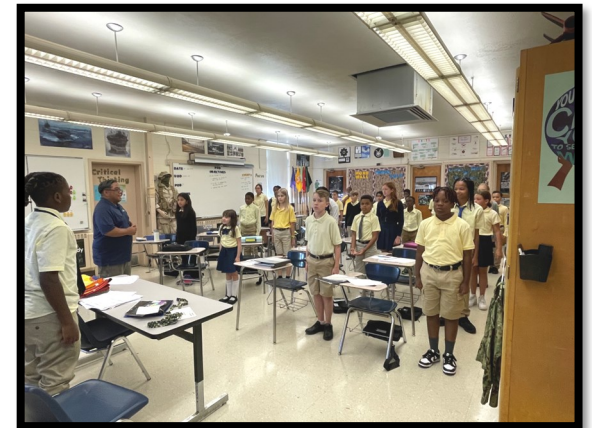

The Academy curriculum is tailored to meet the college and career readiness needs of highly motivated students. The objectives are to:

- expand programs for the study of global education through interdisciplinary studies and partnerships with NATO and Norfolk Sister Cities;
- develop students' ability to respond positively and flexibly to local, national and global events, as individuals and groups;
- develop an understanding of the rapidly changing world, and ability to apply problem solving techniques to critical issues;
- ensure career preparation through knowledge of a foreign language and military science;
- promote parental involvement and intercultural understanding by families sharing ethnic backgrounds, customs and talents;
- prepare students to become "citizens of the world."
